ACCESS

In the fast-paced world of business, it's crucial for organizations to remain competitive by enhancing their operations, simplifying processes, and cutting down on expenses, all while maintaining the highest level of security. One way to achieve this is by incorporating DocuSign digital signatures into your Extended ECM. This integration can simplify the approval of purchases, acceptance of agreements, and signing off of deliverables. As a result, processes and workflows can be significantly accelerated, and operational costs reduced.

An Integrated Solution

DocuSign is one of the world's most popular digital signature solutions. Now, with Fastman Digital Signatures, you can utilize its powerful features directly within your Extended ECM, enabling you to sign and approve documents from anywhere within your OpenText repository with just a few clicks. As it is an integral part of the platform, you can select and "sign" any document within the repository. Once signed, the signing details can be applied directly to the document, and a new, digitally signed version will be added to the original file. This makes the process incredibly simple. If you need more advanced signing options, the Fastman Connector provides integration with DocuSign templates, or you can add anchor tags to your documents in Extended ECM to ensure that signature blocks are correctly located and the signing order is enforced.

Simple To Install, Simple To Use

Extended ECM for DocuSign is a user-friendly module that is easy to configure without requiring professional services or extra development work. The module has an intuitive interface that is familiar to users, which means that training and support costs are kept to a minimum. The central management of signing templates and processes, as well as user document signing capabilities, ensures that you have complete control over this important process at all times.

If you're not using DocuSign yet, consider Fastman for a comprehensive Extended ECM for DocuSign signatures solution. As a leading DocuSign partner, we'll set up and integrate your digital signing environment seamlessly with your OpenText workflows.
